RYDER DENBIGH RYDER SUPREME SOLANDER BOXES

Created by Dr Daniel Charles Solander in the 1700's, these boxes are used to store and preserve works of art, prints and printed matter, drawings and photographs in a protected environment.

Made in two styles, with a plywood frame lined in acid-free papers, they create a safe environment for precious items. They can be produced with attaché fasteners and card holders, as required.

These are the ultimate storage boxes using the finest archival materials in their construction.
